7th July 2017

This week we've thought a lot about London and our local area; spending as much time outside as possible - in the breezy fresh air!

Our Learning Journey

We've been writing up our letters to Her Majesty The Queen, we are almost ready to post them! Fingers crossed we'll receive a reply by when we come back in September!

In preparation for our school trip next Tuesday, we have explored Hampton Court Palace building in books and online to get an idea of things we'd like to visit on the day. We've supplemented this with more research about London landmarks on Google!

Happy un-birthday! We have been discussing important occasions and how we remember them.

We know the Queen often has her portrait painted to remember her special times; by many different artists with different styles. We tried our own in the style of Sir Peter Blake...

All term we have been developing our tennis skills and we can't get enough of it! We know all about the foundations skills that help us to move with agility and hold the racquet in a proper forehand. Andy Murray and Wimbledon, we'll see you on the court!

★ Star learner this week is...

Eric!

Eric has shown great listening and team work across all his learning this week. He's shared some fantastic facts about London landmarks and Hampton Court Palace, it's been great to hear!

Well done Eric!

Reminders

Hampton Court Palace Trip:

Tuesday 11th is our school trip. Please ensure your child arrives with a backpack and water bottle, and waterproofs if the weather requires them! If you're helping out please remember to bring your own lunch.

Home Learning:

Explore the map so you're ready on Tuesday!
