10th February 2016

We've spent this week consolidating our learning about the winter season, dance, and art. Here's our collaborative effort on display in the library...

Our Learning Journey

As we've learnt so much about the story of the Gruffalo's Child and have amazing dance moves - we really know how to feel the music - we thought we'd make our own dance routine to the music from this story. We are going to put the video on the website, so watch this space!

We spent some time learning about the story of One Snowy Day and Percy the Park Keeper. He writes about all the seasons, so we began with winter. We were inspired by the habitats around our own school, then we wrote a collaborative retelling of his story and relaxed in the library as Mrs. French read it back to us. We sound amazing!

Before we move on to the next term's value, we wanted to take a moment to thank all the adults and older children who sometimes help us. We take our hats off to you in our new display...!

In PE this term we have learnt to listen to the pace and tone of the music and experiment in how we show this through movement. Keep an eye on the website for the video! Here's a peek of our Gruffalo's Child characters getting ready to dance...

Star learner this week is...

Laila!

This week Laila has shown us all how to listen and be calm in the classroom, whilst always having a cheerful smile on her face!

Well done Laila!

*Many thanks,
