This Week...

In English we have continued to read The Iron Man. We have written two pieces- a news report and a letter. In the report we focused on including direct and reported speech. We tried to use accurate punctuation. In the letter we gave Hogarth some advice using modal verbs.

During Maths we have been concentrating on place value with 4-digit numbers. We represented numbers in different ways and investigating different ways to partition numbers.

In Science we continued our exploration of states of matter by focusing on gases. In our first practical session we weighed fizzy drinks to find which one contained the most carbon dioxide.

And moving on from the Romans we learned about who the Anglo-Saxons were and how they lived their lives.

Next week, on Friday, we will have our Day of Languages. We will be studying Sweden.

Ambassadors of the Week

Anthony— who recognised the how tenses are different in direct and reported speech

Lucas F— who has been very successful in his reading quizzes.
