This Week...

This week has been a little bit different. We have spent three mornings with Miss Watts, who is going to be our teacher next year in Year 6. We wrote stories, read, discussed friendship and created some art.

In Maths this week we have focused on revising some arithmetic. We have reviewed addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions, decimals and square numbers.

Robin Hood was the focus for history. We read some different sources of evidence to help us decide if the hooded man was real or not. We found the sources contradicted each other and so when we voted we were not convinced either way. But it is a great story.

We have spent quite a few sessions rehearsing for our show, which is very soon. We tried on costumes and that has helped us get into character.
