This Week...

In English we have read a lot. We have read chapters of Harry Potter to try and identify how an author can introduce a flashback and consider why they have included a flashback in the story. We also watched clips of films to identify how film makers use flashbacks.

During Maths we have been working our way around perimeter. We have drawn shapes with a set perimeter and calculated perimeters of composite shapes

In Science we explored the force of 'air resistance'. We made parachutes and, only changing one variable, we then investigated the affect of that variable on the time taken for the parachute to fall. Our results didn't always match our expectations.

In History we explored how and why the Ancient Egyptians mummified the dead.

Ambassadors of the Week

Madison - for being super organised and focused in Science

Thomas - excellent art work in the style of ancient Egyptians
