This Week...

In the 'other world' of Coraline we have been exploring how the use of vocabulary in description can create a mood for the reader and help to establish the thoughts and feelings of characters. We have described a cellar and a creature trying to create a particular mood.

In Maths we have returned to dividing and multiplying by 10,100 and 1000. We have also delved further into decimal place value equating them with fractions.

With Mrs Brown we have finished planning and writing our tourist guides to Paris. We have researched travelling to Paris as well as the sights. We have tried to be persuasive and entice people to Paris.

In Science we have investigated mixing substances and separating them. We have discussed reversible and non reversible changes.

Ambassadors of the Week

Zain—for clearly explaining, using correct vocabulary, how one decimal is bigger than another.

Louisa - for selecting her vocabulary to create a certain mood in her writing
