This Week....

In English we have focused upon flashbacks. We have learned about methods that authors use and the reasons why they use them. We have concentrated on the Harry Potter novels. We have read, listened and watched to help our understanding. We have also reviewed our use of adverbials and introduced prepositional phrases. At the end of the week we have planned and written the first draft of a flashback to add to our own story.

During Maths we have been learning to use protractors to draw shapes. This has required a lot of attention! We have also been solving problems that have involved shapes and angles.

In P.E, this week our astronauts landed and began to examine a new planet. We are trying to develop new pathways, levels and shapes to reflect and interpret the music.

In Science we finished our investigation into friction. We wrote up our enquiry and made conclusions. We also thought about when friction is useful or not.

Ambassadors of the Week

Zain — for giving clear definitions of terms in English and Science.

Ella-May — for showing great patience and persistence while drawing shapes in Maths.

Information for Families

We will be starting the Golden Boot Challenge soon. The challenge is to walk to school.
